

DNR Reports . . .

Glenn Therres, our distinguished "Voice of the DNR" was down with the flu this past month and was unable to contribute his usual excellent column. All was not lost, though, as we received the following communication from the DNR just before our publication deadline, a message that we consider of the greatest importance for all Maryland residents:

Do you know who helps protect Maryland's endangered wildlife and their habitats? Do you know who helps monitor other species to make sure they don't wind up as tomorrow's endangered species? Or who helps to fund Chesapeake Bay restoration programs? Or who funds programs to help save the Piping Plover from extinction in Maryland or programs working now to preserve the state's precious bald eagle population?

The people of Maryland do.

Marylanders who donated to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund raised more than $5 million over the past five years. The monies are divided equally between the Chesapeake Bay Trust and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The DNR portion is then divided between its Natural Heritage Program and the Nongame and Urban Wildlife Program.

"The money that we receive from the tax checkoff is the single largest source of funds for the protection of Maryland's nongame wildlife and endangered species," said DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D. "We would like everyone who enjoys wildlife—whether in their backyard or out in the wild—to help us ensure that the wildlife we enjoy today will be here for our children and grandchildren to enjoy tomorrow. Consider a contribution to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund."

Recent DNR surveys show some interesting trends. In a survey of Marylanders, about 60 percent of the people said they take special interest in wildlife around their homes and 46 percent of those people said they did this daily or weekly. Another independent study indicated that in 1991, nearly 2 million Maryland residents (53 percent of the population) enjoyed wildlife-associated activities.

But in contrast to these dramatic numbers, only a little more than 2 percent of Maryland taxpayers contributed last year to the tax check-off, which directly goes toward helping many of the nongame species that people often see near their homes and is used to help the species on Maryland's growing endangered species list.

"Many people don't realize that wildlife species such as migratory songbirds are showing serious declines," Dr. Brown said. "Con-

MARCH/APRIL 1994

Full House at the 1994 MOS Conference by the Frys & the Bystraks

The Harford County Bird Club is pleased to announce that registration for the 1994 MOS Conference at Sandy Cove has exceeded our initial expectations. More than 290 individuals have registered for rooms and meals. This means that MOS will have "exclusive use" of the entire facility. An additional 40 persons have signed up for meals/conference registration only.

The main building has been completely filled, as have the ten cabins that MOS can use, and there is now a waiting list for rooms in the event of future cancellations.

Those interested in signing up for meals/conference registration only may still do so, until April 15. There is room for about 500 persons in the dining area. Use your conference brochure or call Larry Fry at 410-452-8539 between 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Since all of the rooms have been assigned, we are providing the following information for anyone else who may wish to attend.

Trailer camping is available on the conference facility grounds for a fee. Call Sandy Cove Conference Center for details at 410-287-5433. Camping is also available at nearby Elk Neck State Park. Call the park at 410-287-5333 for further information.

A number of bed and breakfast inns are located in the area. Two are in the nearby town of North East, about a 10-minute drive from the conference center: North Bay B&B at 410-287-5948 and Mill House B&B at 410-287-3532. Two additional inns are located in Havre de Grace, about 30 minutes drive and a $2 toll away from Sandy Cove: Vandiver Inn at 410-939-5200 and Spencer Silver Mansion at 410-939-1485.

Nearby motels are as follows: Comfort Inn, Perryville (I-95 at Exit 93), 410-642-2866; EconoLodge, Elkton (I-95 at Exit 109), 410-392-5010; Motel 6, Elkton, 410-392-5020; Knight's Inn, Elkton, 410-392-6680; and Super 8, Havre de Grace (I-95 at Exit 89 to Rt. 40), 410-939-1880.

Registration confirmation letters will be mailed about March 1. See you at Sandy Cove May 20-22!

Chapter Chatter by Jane Hill

What's new: MOS chapters continue to add to their publication credits, with updated or first-ever county checklists; a Howard Chapter member gets an award from the North American Bluebird Society; a Harford Chapter member educates the public about birds through a weekly newspaper column; and Anne Arundel's extended spring foray to Florida has been set for April 13-20.

The newly available Checklist of the Birds of Howard County 1956-1993, compiled by Joanne Solem, David Holmes, and Martha Chestem, joins a growing roster of recent checklists of flora and fauna published by the Howard County Chapter. The bird checklist specifies breeding status and also includes a code providing a rough idea of the amount of effort (or luck) required for a birder of moderate skill to locate each species. The new compilation replaces Howard County's preliminary checklist, which covered 1956-1984. The new checklist is based mainly on sightings of the past 38 years, as recorded in several annual counts, two county breeding bird atlases, and personal records. A few older historical records are also included. Due to increasingly intense birding efforts during the past decade, the new checklist includes a number of species new to the county and

FUNDAECO and the MOS Guatemalan Rain Forest Initiative by Larry Fry

MOS Chapters and members have contributed over $10,000 to the Foundation for Ecodevelopment and Conservation (FUNDAECO) in Guatemala for the preservation of the Cerro San Gil rainforest.

A check for $4,000 was sent last October. This money was raised by the silent auction, raffle, and photography contest at the 1992/93 MOS Conferences. A matching grant of $1,000 from an individual donor was also included in this amount.

As a result of a challenge issued by the Patuxent Chapter, over $6,000 of additional donations have been raised. MOS chapters and/or individual donors contributed the following amounts: Patuxent, $1,100; Howard, $2,500; Baltimore, $1,075; Montgomery, $682; Washington, $500; Frederick, $200; and Harford, $100.

FUNDAECO will use the money to help pay off an $80,000 loan to complete the purchases in the Cerro San Gil rainforest preserve.

Sanctuary News by Dotty Mumford

WE NEED YOU! PLEASE VOLUNTEER!

We need more volunteers to participate in our workdays. Please consider volunteering. Not only do you get the gratification of knowing you are helping to keep our sanctuaries in good shape, there is also ample time for birding and fellowship with other participants. Since participants come from different MOS chapters, this is a good opportunity to get to know fellow birders from around the state. Also, the more volunteers we have the more the work per person is reduced. Many hands do make light work!

You have the option of coming just for the workday or staying over and making it a weekend trip. There is no overnight fee charged at the Sanctuaries on workday weekends. Meals are provided on Saturday, but you will need to bring what you want for breakfast on Sunday.

Please call the contact person for the workday to let them know that you want to help. This will help determine the amount of work that can be accomplished and insure enough food for Saturday's meals, which are provided for all participants.

The two workday weekends and contacts are:
April 9 & 10 — Irish Grove, Somerset County, Dotty Mumford (410) 849-8336.

April 30 & May 1 — Carey Run, Garrett County, Dan & Charlotte Folk (301) 689-6587.

several new breeding records. To get a copy of the checklist, send a self-addressed, business-size envelope with 1 ounce postage to J. K. Solem, 10617 Graeoch Road, Laurel, MD 20723. Corrections and additions to the checklist should be sent to the same address.

Other recent Howard County checklists include one for butterflies (available by sending a self-addressed envelope with 1 ounce postage to Richard Smith, 5213 Eliot's Oak Road, Columbia, MD 21044), and one for plants (available for $1, plus postage for 2 ounces, from J. K. Solem, 10617 Graeoch Road, Laurel, MD 20723).

Also from Howard County comes the news that Chapter member Mark Wallace was one of six people from the United States and Canada to receive a 1993 North American Bluebird Society award for individual achievement in bluebird conservation. Mark personally monitors 420 nest sites, which fledged 531 birds during the peak year of 1992 (516 birds in 1993). Mark bands almost all the fledglings from these boxes. He also compiles information from about 250 cooperators concerning another 1100 Howard County nest sites. In 1992 Mark co-authored a booklet, Bluebird Handbook for Howard County, Maryland, with Joanne Solem. This 28-page handbook includes a calendar that details tasks that need to be done from February to mid-September to maintain bluebird nest sites. The handbook also covers nest identification, predator control, feeding of bluebirds in winter, landscaping to attract bluebirds, and determining bluebird age. For a copy, send $3 (which includes postage and handling) to J. K. Solem, 10617 Graeoch Road, Laurel, MD 20723.

Gary Griffith, of the Harford County Chapter, is writing a weekly ornithological column for "The Cecil Whig", a Cecil County daily newspaper, to educate the public about birds. Gary receives many letters from readers asking about feeding birds, and assists both the public and the "Whig" staff with bird identification problems. Gary also asks readers for information about local birds—for example, the locations of breeding pairs of uncommon birds. In addition, Gary is writing a book on the birds of Cecil County that will include information on where to find birds, population trends, and historical data. Gary reports that he has another 18 months of field work left to do on the book.

Harford also reports publication of a new checklist, "Birds of Cecil County", compiled by Bill Pfingsten. (Cecil County does not have its own MOS chapter.) This checklist is similar to the recently published "Birds of Harford County", also compiled by Bill Pfingsten. Either checklist can be obtained by sending $0.25 and a self-addressed envelope with post-

The Conservation Corner

Now there is a headline that grabs your attention! It ranks right up there with "Man Bites Dog." You ask yourself, what politician in his right mind would criticize our nation's caring, concerned volunteers? Preposterous? Think it couldn't be true? Just read on. When it comes to the proposal to use volunteers to collect data in the planned national inventory of natural resources known as the National Biological Survey (NBS) this absurd headline is chillingly true.

The plan to create a national inventory of natural resources (H.R. 1845) recently passed the House of Representatives but has been bottled up in a Senate Committee. The NBS, which is intended to guide federal policy, assist state governments, and even help local land-use planners, has been greeted with anticipation and excitement in some quarters, and something akin to dread in others. Basically the plan is to reorganize the Department of the Interior's Fish & Wildlife Service and divert funds and personnel into a large scale federal program to inventory our nation's resources (including endangered species), assess the overall status and trends in ecosystems, and create a biotic resources information data base.

Talk about stirring up Congress. Hoo-eee! You'd have thought somebody walked up to a bald-faced hornet's nest and whacked it with a stick!

Private property rights groups are up in arms. Fears of government "takings" are trumpeted as a battle cry. Worse, the thought of federally sanctioned volunteers participating in the NBS has driven some to a state approaching apoplexy. Amid the Congressional splutterings as relayed by Peter Berle of the National Audubon Society in The Washington Post are the following:

Politicians Bash Volunteers by Richard J. Dolesh

"This research is too important to allow it to be handled by potentially untrained, untested, potentially prejudiced individuals who will not be accountable for the quality of their work performed. ... You start with bad science, you end up with bad science."

Rep. Billy Tauzin (D-LA)

"It is hard to believe that an interest group could actually be one of the volunteers, that we could have the Sierra Club, ... the Audubon Society, Friends of the Earth, ... any of these organizations could actually qualify as volunteers to go out and collect data... And in essence we are creating an environmental gestapo that will go on people's property..."

Rep. Jack Fields (R-TX)

"The NBS is ... everything that radical preservationists could ask for... We are going to be subject to the whims of the 'Eco-police,'"

Rep. Bill Emerson (R-MO)

"What are we going to do? Send out schoolchildren to count the ants on the sidewalk on the way home, or are we going to have Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts out doing spider surveys?"

Rep. Robert Walker (R-PA)

Thought I was kidding about politicians bashing volunteers, didn't you? As you can see from this selection of snippets, it is not just true, it is shameless.

This should be a clarion call to us all as members of the Maryland Ornithological Society. Regardless of the merits of the NBS proposal, these virulent attacks on the capability of volunteers to contribute to "good science" are totally unacceptable.

It is preaching to the choir to state the merits and irreplaceable scientific value of volunteer gathered data in the decades of Christmas Bird Counts. And it is further preaching to hold up the Breeding Bird Atlas to the most rigorous scientific scrutiny and see it recognized as an extraordinary contribution by volunteers to exactly the kind of database envisioned in the National Biological Survey. But perhaps it is time we did some preaching.

The spirit of volunteerism embodied by the tens of thousands of counters, listers, and watchers across America is not diminished by these cheap shot attacks. Nor is the quality of contribution changed in any way.

Outrage is not appropriate; education, however, is. What can you do? First, find out more about the proposal to create the NBS. It is complex and bureaucratic, but it is not without merit. If successful, it may be of great value in the efforts to understand and preserve the most threatened of our dwindling natural resources. Second, become more aware of the fears that caused these politicians to lash out at the very volunteers they are likely to claim make our nation great. Anti-environmental sentiment may be politically correct in some quarters, but this gratuitous trashing of biologically literate volunteers has deeper roots.

In the meantime, how about if we invite them to a Records Committee meeting?

contributions to the tax checkoff enable us to work proactively to make sure that beloved songbirds never reach the point of being threatened or endangered."

The other half of the tax checkoff money goes to the Chesapeake Bay Trust and is used to support bay restoration efforts. The Trust returns donations to communities in the form of grants for bay restoration and education projects conducted by community groups, schools and nonprofit organizations.

It's easy to help ensure the success of the Fund. Just check line 63 on your Maryland State Income Tax Form and write in the amount you wish to donate. The amount is automatically deducted from the refund or added to the tax payment.

A Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund Annual Report is available by calling the Wildlife Division's Wye Mills office at (410) 827-8612. Additional information can also be found on page 25 of the tax instruction book.

Spaces are still available on Anne Arundel Chapter's extended foray to Florida, set for April 13-20, 1994. Although the trip was originally expected to be in conjunction with "Wings", plans now call for participants to decide the itinerary themselves—except for a definitely scheduled side-trip to the Dry Tortugas, with a night spent on the Yankee Clipper. ## Education Committee Report by Linda Bystrak

In spite of the icy roads on Jan. 22, 4 members of the MOS Education Committee met at the Cylburn Mansion in Baltimore. Joy Wheeler from the Baltimore chapter, Maggie Duncan from the Kent chapter, and Gloria Meade from the Montgomery Chapter joined me at noon in the conference room of the beautiful arboretum headquarters. Two and a half hours later we completed the summary of the Education Committee Survey, which had been written and distributed in June of 1993.

The Survey contained 18 questions and originally was 4 pages long. By the time the responses were added it was 15 pages in length. Some of the questions on the Survey were given to us by the original ad hoc committee and may overlap the assignments of other MOS committees e.g. the Scholarship, Sanctuary and Publications committees. Responses collected pertaining to those other committees will be shared and discussed.

There were a total of 70 respondents representing 13 chapters. Each chapter was given one vote, but the number of individuals voting yes or no was also tabulated so that a comparison could be made. In almost every case the results were the same. In those few instances that were not, the committee members found a compromise.

Some of the questions from the Survey, along with the results, are as follow:

1. The MOS Education Committee has received a gift of $30,000. How we utilize this donation may determine whether or not we receive future contributions from other members. Some of our members feel that we should leave the principle amount in a savings account and only spend the interest money (about $1000) every year. Others feel that if we do not spend at least some of the principle every year, we may not receive future contributions. So, the first issue to resolve is:

a. Do we use the principle as an endowment and only spend the interest?

Yes 40% No 60%

b. Or do we spend both the interest and principle as the need arises?

Yes 60% No 40%

International Migratory Bird Week Scheduled

The 1993 International Migratory Bird Day, coordinated by the Smithsonian Migratory Bird Center, was the Information and Education Working Group's first nationwide education initiative. The glowing success of this first year has led us to expand the celebration from one day to an entire week. Mark May 9-14, 1994 on your calendars as International Migratory Bird Week (IMBW), with May 14 as a culmination day for celebration!

The goals of IMBW are to:

- create a heightened public awareness of Neotropical migratory birds and their population declines;
- show people how they can contribute to or initiate migratory bird conservation projects; and
- heighten public awareness of the biological and economic links between North America, Central America, South America, and the Caribbean.

To assist organizers in planning events, we are developing the IMBW Organizer's Information and Media Packet, which will include samples of news releases, brochures, and articles. We also plan for this to be a major fundraising effort, and by the end of the week, would like to send substantial support to sister Partners in Flight organizations south of the U.S. border.

IMBW will be an exciting week! For more information, write Rick Bonney, Chair, I&E Working Group, Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology, 159 Sapsucker Woods Road, Ithaca, NY 14850 (607-254-2440; fax -2415).

Education Committee

6. Do you think that MOS should help sponsor school based activities pertaining to:

a) ornithology?

Yes 90% No 10%

b) preservation of bird habitats?

Yes 90% No 10%

c) building a school bird feeder?

Yes 55% No 45%

d) programs such as Wetland Wise?

Yes 76% No 24%

e) the DNR program "Scales and Tales"

Yes 80% No 20%

7. Do you think that MOS should conduct a training program for field trip leaders?

Yes 54% No 46%

The Education Committee will meet again at Cylburn on Saturday, April 9 at noon for a 3 hour meeting. The goal will be to use the survey results to outline a long range plan to present at the May 21 annual meeting. April 9 participants are asked to bring their own bag lunch. Drinks will be provided.

'94 Conference Update by Paul Bystrak

At the request of the Education Committee, the Conference Committee has agreed to sponsor a new "Scales and Tales" presentation called "Art In the Park," at the May 21 Conference. Late in the afternoon on Saturday, DNR naturalist Bill Troutman and company will tether some of their more docile rehab birds and animals along one of the Sandy Cove nature trails. Members of the Scales and Tales team will protect the birds and answer questions from MOS members as they walk the trail. Nature photographers and artists are encouraged to bring their equipment, for a "once-in-a-life-time" chance to photograph or paint a wild bird at close range in a natural setting.

MOS members are also reminded that the Silent Auction Committee is looking for donations of books, art work, bird houses, feeders, nature crafts, jewelry, etc. for the auction on May 20-22. Donations should be in mint condition, and are tax deductible. Anyone willing to help, or who has a contribution should contact Sybil Williams at 301-762-0560.

The Raffle Committee is looking for raffle prizes for the Conference. Valuable works of art, new appliances, or items too valuable to put in the Silent Auction are what Tom Congersky and his committee are seeking. Please give Tom a call at 410-676-6489 if you have a tax deductible contribution to make.

The Field Trip Committee is still looking for trip leaders for the Conference. If you do not know how to get to a site or are unfamiliar with the trails, we may be able to provide an assistant to help. Leaders are needed to identify the birds during the trip. Give the Field Trip Coordinator Dave Webb a call at 410-569-0107 as soon as possible if you are interested.

We still need a volunteer to take charge of our photography contest. Anyone interested in taking charge or being a judge please call me at 410-392-5621.

MOS STATE and LOCALITY LISTS—1993

This marks the eighth year the MOS has compiled and published its members' state and locality bird list totals. This year there were 71 respondents, down five from last year. I continued to use the reporting categories from last year, including annual Yard Lists and annual All-County lists. All-County lists indicated the number of species seen in all of Maryland's 23 counties.

Yard lists are ever popular. A "yard" list is defined as the number of species seen in or from the property that is contiguous to one's residence. Over the years, people have adopted other "yards" for listing, so I have asked respondents to indicate if their yard count is from their home, work, or some other location.

This year, I limited published "Life" lists to 50% of the maximum possible for each locality. Also, "All-Time High" lists were limited to the 50% level for Maryland, DC and the counties. I included the top three county "All-Time High" lists, even if they were below 50%.

In the highly visible lifetime "Maryland State List" category, Paul O'Brien (Montgomery) and Mark Hoffman (Anne Arundel) each picked up one additional Maryland lifer in 1993, keeping Paul ahead of Mark by one species with a total of 358. Larry Bonham (Montgomery) ticked off 259 species statewide in Maryland for the highest 1993 total.

In the District of Columbia listings, Dave Czaplak (Montgomery) raised his life total in DC by 2 species to 289. Ottavio Janni (DC) tallied 217 species, tops for 1993.

In the "All County" category, Jim Stasz (Calvert) became the first lister to break 100, having seen 105 species in all of Maryland's 23 counties. Jim has determined that 214 is the current "maximum" possible in the All-county category.

Local birders continued to dominate the lists in their hometown counties. Teresa Simons (Allegany) regained the all-time lead for her home county from "carpetbagger" Jim Stasz and his 1992 performance. Teresa identified 211 species in the county, 75 percent of the maximum possible.

Maryland's loss will be Massachusetts' gain, as Frederick County birder extraordinaire, Stauffer Miller, has retired and moved to the Cape Cod area. Stauffer cleaned up 1993 in grand style as he tallied 231 for 1993, far besting his previous high (217 for 1992). His 1993 efforts also raised his Frederick County life list by 12 to 250. Stauffer certainly demonstrates his credentials as author of his guide "Bird Finding in Frederick County." Clean up in Massachusetts, Stauffer. Good luck!

Bob Ringler (Carroll) identified 198 county species in 1993 and added 4 to his Carroll County lifelist, raising his total to 258.

In Charles County, George Jett (Charles) turned in 183 for the year and added 5 to his life list, securing the top of the county's life list with a total of 218.

In Harford, Dave Webb (Harford) reversed the tables on John Wortman (Harford) from last year and listed 208 for the year in the county. John, however, added 5 to his life list for the county, pushing his total way up to 258.

In Talbot County, Richard Kleen (Talbot) added 2 to his lifetime county list, bringing his total up to 273.

Local competition within Howard County continues to be keen. This year 4 birders finished the year within 6 species of each other. Joanne Solem (Howard) checked off 202 for the year and added five to her county life list, tallying 255.

Patty Craig of Saint Mary's County has been birding for about 10 years, but just began listing last year. She made a quantum jump into the lead of both the annual and lifetime lists for her home county. Patty checked off 212 species for 1993 and ended the year with a lifelist total of 265 for the county. Good work, Patty!

Mark Hoffman, who turned in an incredible total last year for Worcester County, apparently couldn't break the habit of driving Route 50, since he still turned in 260 for the county in 1993. Mark also raised his leading Worcester lifelist total by 5 to 326.

In the Maryland Yard list category, Henry Armistead (PA) sighted 160 species for 1993 and added 1 to his life yard list at his weekend home in Talbot County. Joy Wheeler (Baltimore) found 139 species at her favorite spot, Northampton Furnace Trail at Lock Raven. Bonnie Ott (Howard) was the only "inland" home yard lister to top 100 species for 1993. Bonnie attributes her success to the fact that she has a great view of the open sky and has had many intriguing "flyovers" to augment her list (like a Golden Eagle!). She also stays home with her children and is able to slip out onto her deck many times each day.

George Jett and Jim Stasz went for "big day" totals in Charles County. Hard luck story of the year goes to George, who recounts "Jim had 128 to my 126. He heard a Barn Owl in my yard which I missed while loading his equipment into my car. Life isn't fair!"

Good luck and good birding in 1994!

Phil Davis
MOS County List Coordinator

Annual Statewide May Count

The 1994 May Count will be held on Saturday, May 14th. Each county and the District of Columbia have coordinators to spread the coverage in each county to cover all of the habitats and compile the county tally. If you plan to participate, please contact the coordinator at least several days in advance. This is the 3rd Annual North American Migration Count and the 2nd International Migratory Bird Day. Letters have been sent to birders throughout the 48 contiguous States and Alaska asking them to start a "May Count" for their county and join in a "National Bird Day".

Keep track of hours, miles, and numbers . . . write details for unusual species or unusual numbers of a species. Keep a separate list for each county you visit, and send the information to the correct coordinator as soon as possible.

Each coordinator edits the county tally and deletes undocumented rare species or unusual high counts that lack comment. Due to the need to compile all of the information promptly and prepare the summary for Maryland Birdlife, you must supply details as soon as possible; neither the coordinators nor I will have much time to seek more information. The list on the other side contains most of the usual species and a few of the regular, but local, species. Certain species reported almost every year need details, these include: Winter Wren, Sedge Wren, Philadelphia Vireo, American Tree Sparrow, and Fox Sparrow. Purple Finches have been scarce this winter, so be careful to distinguish them from the more abundant House Finch. When in doubt, take some notes: who, when, where, and most of all . . . a description. Do not just note: "seen by an experienced birder", "looks like the picture in the field guide" or submit a brief list of field marks.

This is an excellent opportunity for "County Listers" to add a lot of species. Worcester, Somerset, and Dorchester counties can always use some more help. Write to the County Coordinator for a good area needing coverage.

Changes to the Reporting Form:

To help data analysis a few changes are necessary. There are 3 kinds of ways to count birds: Regular, where the observer moves on foot, by car, by boat, etc., with respect to the birds [most lists will be this kind]; Feeder Watch, where the observer is in one small area most of the time and many of the birds are attracted to feeders; and Stationary, such as a hawk lookout, where the observer is stationary but most of the birds move by [someone sitting at Monument Knob, Ft. Smallwood, or Sandy Point]. Circle the kind of list you are submitting:

Regular

Feeder Watch

Stationary

Additionally, there are Night Birds, those found pre-dawn and post-dusk in the "Owling" period: put these in the Night Birds Box, do not put them on your main list. If you are not certain about these instructions, call your County Coordinator or me.
